BAYONNE OIL PLANT SCENE OF BATTLE

1 KILLED AND 7 INJURED BY POLICE AT STANDARD FACTORY.

STATE MILITIA GOES ON DUTY

Buildings Wrecked and Stores Looted by Ruffians in Stricken District—Two Girls Stripped and Sent Home Naked.

Bayonne, N. J.—The workers in the Standard Oil Refinery at this place have been on strike for the last few days, asking an increase in wages and a shortening of the hours.

Strikebreakers have been brought in by the company, and the employees are becoming restless over the lack of progress shown by leaders.

Last Sunday an incident of riot was quelled by the police who fired a few shots into a crowd of strikers and killed a woman.

Since that time feeling has been growing more bitter against the company and the strikebreakers.

Thursday a street battle developed between the police and the strikers and one man was killed and seven severely injured.

The police columns surrounded the rioters, who had been holding Bayonne at their mercy, and a pitched battle ensued.

New Jersey militiamen, back from duty on the Mexican border, were sworn in as special policemen, and formed one of the columns of law which endeavored to disperse the mob.

rioting and burning buildings and looting stores in the Bayonne business district.

As the strikers retreated, step by step, others continued to fire from housetops and windows at the detectives and guards.

More than 200 uniformed special officers, armed with riot guns and revolvers borrowed from the New York City police department, took part in the fight.

The battle started as the police marched past the Twenty-second street railroad station, and the strikers threw stones and fired several shots. Several of the workmen made a determined stand half a block from the station, and the police fired into their point-blank. One striker fell dead. Others were hit, but were carried away by their comrades.

One of the worst instances of brutality reported to the police was that which befell two pretty Polish girls, workers at the plant of the Pacific Coast Borax Company. On their way to work they were halted by a group of men who demanded that they stay away.

"We're not on strike," said the girls. Thereupon, according to the word reaching police headquarters, they were stripped of all their clothing and sent home naked through the streets.

FAIR STOCK

PREVENT RUPTURE IN COLTS

Best Time for Treatment Is When Animals Are Young—Directions Given by an Expert.

By W. P. SHULER, Department of Veterinary Medicine, Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater.

The time to treat colts for rupture is in the region of the navel when they are young and before the ruptured structures have become large enough to permit the passage out of the abdominal cavity of any portion of the intestines. It should be done at the time of birth or soon after the navel begins to close up. This should take place naturally and completely, and the wall of the abdomen closed together firmly. However, this does not always happen, and hence we have a little punklike enlargement forming that has a direct connection with the abdominal cavity. This may close up of its own accord, and then again it may become larger until finally structures like a loop of intestines will be able to work their way into it.

You will find the following to be all that is probably necessary: Clip off the hair around the enlargement and back two inches from the base; grease the skin thoroughly around the edge of the slipped area; take a glass rod and some concentrated nitric acid and dipping the glass rod into the acid, draw three or four lines across this enlargement. It may be necessary to repeat this treatment once or twice more.

The acid will cauterize it and cause scar tissue to form, which will ultimately fill up the opening in the abdominal cavity and the rupture will be obliterated.

GUESSING AT COLT'S COLOR. No One Can Make Safe Prediction Except in Suffolk Breed—Colors Come in Series.

If one knows the ancestry and breeding performance of both the mare and horse, a fairly safe prediction can be made as to the color of your colt, says Dr. O. Lloyd Jones of Iowa State college. No one can be sure in most cases, however.

Colors in horses come in series, and with parents in any series, of one low the other in the series, colors may be expected from any one of the series from the highest down. Chestnut is the simplest color and the lowest in the series. Hence it is the only one that can be absolutely predicted. As far as known, there is no case on record where a chestnut horse and chestnut mare have not brought a colt of the same color. The Suffolk is the only breed that is absolutely true to color.

Black is the next in series, followed in order by bay, gray and roan. Gray parents may have a colt that is gray, bay, black or chestnut, but never a roan.

PASTURE IS VALUABLE ASSET. In Pasturing Alfalfa Care Must Be Taken That It Is Not Cut Too Heavily—Best for Hogs.

For "growing out" little pigs and carrying over dry sows, a good pasture is a valuable asset. Alfalfa makes the best pasture for hogs. In pasturing alfalfa, care should be taken that it is not pastured too heavily. If this is done, the alfalfa will be badly killed out in two or three years, and it will be necessary to reseed.

Pasturing should never be carried on so heavily that one-half ton of hay per acre can be cut three times a season. The occasional cutting of the alfalfa induces new shoots to grow, and hence greatly improves the pasture for the pigs.

IMPROPER FEEDING OF CALF. Indigestion Is Most Common Affliction Attacking Growing Animal—Causes of Condition.

The most common affliction which may attack the growing calf is indigestion. The causes of this condition are numerous; the most important ones are overfeeding, feeding of cold or sour milk, feeding dirty milk, feeding milk that is high in fat, improper housing and frequent or sudden changes in temperature. Frequent attacks of indigestion are an indication of improper feeding practice.

Pigs Turn Money Quickly. Pigs turn money quickly and it pays to give them a chance. If pigs are handled properly, they simply grunt and grow and put money in your pocket.

Man Must Do His Part. A good deal is said about the hog as a mortgage lifter, but it is up to the man behind the hog to do his part.

Brain Is Too Bulky. Brain is too bulky for young pigs that have access to forage crops.

FARM POULTRY

WELFARE OF YOUNG TURKEYS

Dampness Is Fatal to Poults During First Few Weeks—Allow Flocks to Roam at Will.

Young turkeys must have dry ground on which to roost. Dampness is fatal during the first few weeks. Poults that come out in bright weather and are blessed with two weeks of sunshine in which to get a start in life, may have earlier-hatched birds behind. Assuming that the parent stock is vigorous, young turkeys are not difficult to rear successfully. The mother turkey will rid herself of vermin and teach the young to do the same if she has access to a good dust bath. A little pure lard or sweet oil on the head and under the wings of the poults will destroy lice effectively.

Unless the weather is unusually warm and dry it is better to keep the young birds in a roomy open air pen the first two weeks of their life. After that they may be allowed to go where they will, except that it is better not to let them out until the dew has dried off in the morning for a few weeks longer. Restraint is detrimental to turkeys, as a general thing. The average grower should allow the flocks to roam over the fields at will. By so doing they will pick up nearly all of their summer and only full food.

MALE IS DISTURBING FACTOR. Practice of Allowing Roosters Freedom of Flock After Hatching Season Is Over Is Bad.

By T. R. QUINER, University of Wisconsin. The one fault in the management of farm flocks which, from the viewpoint of improving the quality of market eggs, is worse than all others combined, is the almost universal practice of allowing the males the freedom of the flock after the hatching season is over. Nine-tenths of the vast number of eggs that are coddled out every summer as unfit for food are fertile eggs in which the germ has started to develop. A temperature of 75 degrees will start the germ in a fertile egg to slowly developing. A fertile egg subjected to a temperature of 100 degrees for 24 hours will be unfit for food, while an infertile egg may be subjected to the same temperature for a week and still be perfectly good for cooking purposes.

The simple expedient of shutting up or disposing of the adult male birds as soon as the hatching season is over, if it should become the general custom, would result in the saving of a million of dollars' worth of eggs every season. Another important advantage in having no males in the laying pens is the fact that the hens without males running with them are much more gentle and quiet. The male is a disturbing factor.

CAPONIZE FOR BEST PRICES. Fowls Sell in Winter for 25 to 30 Cents a Pound—Most Attractive in Dozen Lots.

By M. E. DICKSON, University of Wisconsin. Don't sell late chickens cheaply caponize them.

Caponize in winter from 25 to 30 cents a pound.

Black Island Reds, Plymouth Rocks and Brahmas make the best capons.

Keep fowls without food for 24 hours before caponizing.

Be careful to cut away from and not toward the backbone when making the incisions.

Always dress capons "in style"—leave feathers around necks, hocks, on wing tips and end of the tail.

Ship capons in dozen lots; they bring better prices.

GIVE ATTENTION TO SHELTER. Fowls Require Shade in Summer and Protection From Cold and Damp Weather in Winter.

Attention must be given to shelter. The fowls will require shade in the summer and shelter from cold and damp weather in the winter. To meet these requirements it will require preparations. To wait till protection is actually needed may be too late. One must anticipate the needs of the fowls.

FOWLS REQUIRE FRESH AIR. Provide Out-of-Door Roosting Quarters for Hens—Increased Egg Production Will Result.

If your birds drop their wings and pant when on the roost, they are too warm and need more air. Provide out-of-door but protected roosting quarters for the hens and you will note your reward in increased production for this comfort.

Typical Capon.

Paradoxical Dining. "I expect you're not dining." "Well, dear, I'm giving on one." "That's like a woman's logic. How can you give a man a square meal with a round of beef?"

A Good Excuse. "Mint makes a nice sauce." "Yes, I like that sauce idea. Gives you a fine excuse for bringing home mint."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
